Haliburton man charged with theft, drug trafficking

HALIBURTON — Christopher Charles Roberts 19, has been charged with break, enter and theft plus theft over $200 following a break-in at Curry Motors here. Eighteen sets of car keys were taken along with a 1979 Corvette valued at $15,600.

The Minden OPP weekly report states that Roberts drove the Corvette to the gas shed at Haliburton Marine and he broke into the shed taking $12 worth of gas.

Roberts was then apprehended by PC Weir of Midland OPP about 11 am, Oct. 6th. The Corvette was recovered at this time with no license plates.

Roberts was also charged with possession of restricted drugs for the purpose of trafficking, 32 doses of LSD and possession of narcotics for the purpose of trafficking and 23 grams of hashish. The drug charges were laid by Midland OPP.

Minden OPP have laid additional charges on Roberts of breach of probation and breach of recognition as a result of release August 7th, 1979.

Shop Canadian Week Oct. 7-13

TORONTO — Shopping Canadian means more jobs for Canadians. That's the basic message behind Shop Canadian Week in Ontario, October 7 through 13, declared by Ontario Minister of Industry and Tourism Larry Grossman.

Gallup Poll research shows that 67 percent of Canadians believe they benefit from buying Canadian made products. But only about 40 percent of consumers always remember to check for country of origin when making purchases.

A reminder to Shop Canadian is especially important at this time before the major holiday shopping season.

Young people are being reminded to Shop Canadian through a special school program, The Great Made-In-Canada Label Hunt, developed by the ministry of industry and tourism in cooperation with the ministry of education. Two lesson plans and sets of teaching materials, one for grades four through eight and one for high schools, will try to make young people aware of the connection between their purchases and the economy as a whole.

New bus inspection program comes into effect October 31

TORONTO — Transportation and Communications Minister James Snow today reminded bus operators that a new, comprehensive bus inspection program comes into effect October 31, 1979.

"I want to make sure all bus operators in the province are aware of this new program," the Minister said.

"Buses found operating on provincial streets and highways without the appropriate safety inspection stickers after the end of the month will be removed from service until they have been obtained."

The new program covers nearly all bus categories, except school buses which are already covered under Ontario's school bus inspection program.

Under the new program, a "bus" is defined as a motor vehicle with dual wheels or tandem rear axles, other than those fitted with a truck or delivery body, and designed to carry 10 or more passengers.

It includes all buses operated by or under contract to a municipality or transit authority; buses licensed as public vehicles under the Public Vehicles Act; and similar vehicles used for the transportation of persons in wheelchairs, regardless of designed seating capacity.

The new inspection program covers nearly all bus categories, including buses privately owned and operated by colleges and universities, church and service groups, sports organizations and industry.

Snow said the inspections must be carried out by a registered licensed mechanic at one of the 9,000 licensed inspection stations in the province or at licensed company owned facilities.

Vehicles which meet the required standards will be issued two stickers — a safety inspection sticker valid for six months, and a special brake inspection sticker valid for 12. Both must be prominently displayed in full public view on the inner surface of the windshield.

Makeup mood vibrant, defined

MANY of the new fall and winter style silhouettes make clear-cut statements which require well-defined cosmetic color accents, says Kay Larke, special beauty consultant for Elizabeth Arden of Canada.

"With so much emphasis on form and fit in shaped and belted suits and dresses, makeup is also becoming more structured," she says. "Vibrant, luminous face colors, applied with precision, work well with these emphatic styles."

Mrs. Larke says Elizabeth Arden color specialists designed "The Birth of the Blue Reds" fall/winter makeup collection to give vivid color while the sheer composition of the cosmetics provides a luminousness which lends refinement to the strong lines in fashion.

There are three distinct groups of color in the collection. Sassy, real reds go well with the clear-cut looks of straight skirts, perky hats and belted suits. Deep blue reds provide all-out glamor when worn with black, and also color-complement popular burgandy and sapphire blue shades. Sentimental, mellow reds enhance the soft look of knitted sweater dresses and lacy lingerie blouses.

All the colors in the collection, however, are clear and vibrant, says Mrs. Larke, so color must have equal emphasis all over the face to provide a good balance.

"The eyes will be a kaleidoscope of color, with two or three shades of rose or grey or indigo used for highlighting, contouring, lining and shadowing."

"The mouth will be lined and then colored with a vivid red shade, and cheeks will be blushed and contoured with one or two shades which coordinate with the lip color."

Mrs. Larke says makeup for daytime is bright, clear and fairly simple, while evening makeup is much more finished and ornamented. For instance, a burnished gold eye accent called Starry Eyes can be worn alone or over a grey or rose eye shadow for extra sparkle, while a gold-toned cheek accent will flatter a rose cheek shade.

SENTIMENTAL REDS, clear and mellow, work well with romantic daytime looks of soft sweater dresses and lingerie blouses, says the Elizabeth Arden company.

Norton announces $200,000 in child research grants

TORONTO — Grants totaling $200,000 in the current fiscal year are now available for child-related research, Keith C. Norton, Minister of Community and Social Services announced today.

The grants money represents the first allocation of the Ministry's $4 million from the Provincial Lottery. Another $300,000 in Lottery funds will be utilized this year for special research projects being planned by the Children's Services Division of the ministry.

This is one of the Ontario Government's programs associated with the International Year of the Child. It is intended that additional lottery money will be made available for new grant funding on an annual basis until the lottery allocation is fully committed.

The grants program will be administered by the Ontario Mental Health Foundation. All projects will be subject to the foundation's rules for project research. The deadline for research grant applications is September 28, 1979.

Research projects can involve any of the services provided by the Children's Services Division of the ministry including: day care, child welfare, juvenile corrections, mental health and mental retardation. Research can focus on children with special needs requiring any of these services or a combination of them. The research funds are not intended for major equipment purchases.

Research programs should be specific and with a fixed term of duration. Requests for grants for more than one year (with a maximum of three years) will be considered with funding in later years contingent upon available funds.

Priority areas for research in the Children's Services Division were identified as (1) Primary Prevention research to facilitate the development of preventative services which would reduce the incidence of serious problems for children and families and (2) Intervention Evaluation to test the effectiveness of treatment and rehabilitation strategies with specific disorders, disabilities or problems.

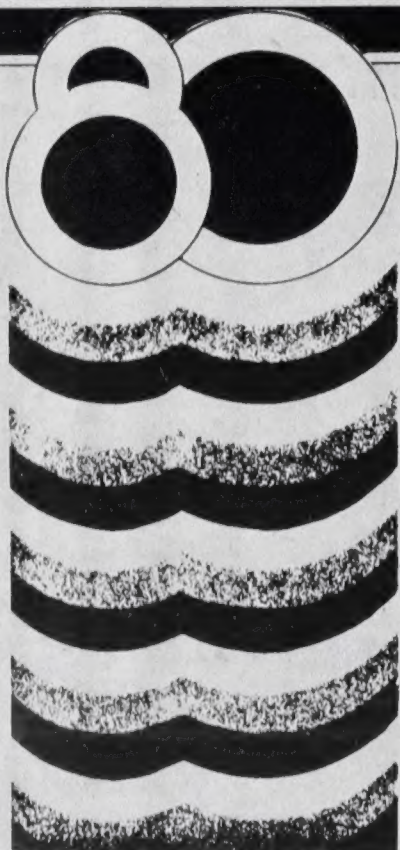

A pamphlet outlining the details of the research program, an application form and the foundation's rules are available from the foundation's offices.

Bennett announces extension for response to Planning Act Proposals

The deadline for responding to the province's draft legislation on the Planning Act has been extended four months to March 31, 1980 by Housing Minister Claude Bennett.

In a letter to all Ontario municipalities Bennett explained the extension was instituted for two reasons: first, requests for more time by some municipalities, second his own desire to ensure that the language of draft legislation is "as straightforward as possible" and that it also reflect some of the concerns already expressed to him on the white paper.

The white paper on the Planning Act was released

May 31 at which time it was indicated that draft legislation would be available by the end of August. A deadline of November 16 was set for response to the provincial proposals.

"To avoid the need for municipalities to make separate submissions on the white paper and the draft legislation, I am extending the deadline for all submission until March 31," the letter states.

Bennett said that, beginning in the new year and after the draft legislation has been released, a series of workshops will be held for municipal representatives across the province to enable questions and concerns to be explored before submissions are forwarded to the ministry.

The white paper contains proposals for changing the province's Planning Act by cutting red tape and reducing the number of planning-related appeals to the Ontario Municipal Board.

It culminated almost four years of study and public review of Ontario's planning process highlighted by the 1977 Report of the Planning Act Review Committee headed by Professor I.I. Comay of York University.

The New World of "Shrink"

By W. Roger Worth

"Shrink," according to the dictionary, means to "draw back, as in retreat or avoidance."

That six-letter word has gained new credibility in recent years, to the point where government technocrats, politicians, even business people, cringe when they hear it used.

The Canadian public should also be concerned.

While a few powerful decision makers may be referring to friendly psychiatrists when they use the word "shrink", most understand it reflects basic changes that are taking place in Canadian society, affecting everyone in the country.

The most prominent example of "shrink" in action is the dramatically smaller size of North American automobiles, a response to the shrinking supply of energy, as well as high-cost oil and gas.

But "shrink" is the operative word in virtually every sector of the Canadian economy. Consider a couple of examples of how people are being affected by "shrink:"

Roger Worth is Director, Public Affairs, Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

*Hundreds of elementary schools across the country have been closed because of the shrinking size of Canada's school age population.

As a result, teacher layoffs have become a normal occurrence.

The impact of a shrinking school age population is now being felt in high schools and universities, and it won't be long before the effects of Canada's changing demographics hit the work place. Even now, many smaller businesses across the country complain they can't find workers.

"Governments are particularly concerned. Canadians, both at federal and provincial levels, have been living beyond their means for a number of years, chalking up federal deficits of $10 billion or more per year. That's $1,000 for each and every working Canadian.

Now decisions are being made that will hopefully shrink that deficit. Naturally, a great many people will be affected.

Ottawa is considering much tighter rules on unemployment insurance payments — now costing at least $4.5 billion ($450 per worker) — and a lot of other programs. Cutbacks in advertising budgets, the size of the civil service, and the amount of money spent on government subsidized programs are in vogue. Few new programs that cost money will be considered.

The provinces are following suit. Belt tightening is the order of the day. Virtually every institution from hospitals (shortening the length of a patient's stay), to social welfare agencies (fewer professionals, smaller budgets), to sanitation services (less pickups to save money) is affected.

"Shrink" is so widespread, in fact, that it's only a matter of time until every Canadian understands it is not just another catchy word in an advertisement for a new fangled diet.

And for those wondering what happened to the size of chocolate bars during the last few years, there's a simple explanation. It's called "shrink." Now if we could only "shrink" prices on the same items.

Al Northey, Redmen defensive standout

Redmen defence shuts out powerful Trojans, 10-0

LINDSAY — Over the past 11 year's Haliburton hasn't done that well against Lindsay Trojans in senior football. However, that memory remained vivid in the minds of the players and coaches last Thursday in Lindsay and with an outstanding defense the Redmen beat the Trojans 10-0.

Al Northey was the player of this particular game as he recovered two Trojan fumbles and also sacked the Trojan quarterback in the end zone for a two point safety touch to open the scoring.

The game was played under terrible weather conditions and the field was a quagmire making the runners suffer but a total of 134 yards was gained.

Midway through the first quarter, Lindsay went back to punt the ball and got a short kick-off which was fumbled and recovered by Northey. Haliburton then drove to the 1 yard line from the Trojans 25th. On second and one to go Haliburton fumbled and Lindsay took over. End of first quarter with Northey breaking through saw Haliburton 2, Lindsay 0.

The Lindsay defense as well as Haliburton's played superb football. Lindsay held the edge in turnovers 4-1 on one fumble recovery and three interceptions of Tim Davies passe.

Lindsay threatend to score early in the last quarter but once again the Redmen came up big with Bishop intercepting. The offence of the Redmen stalls, they kick to Lindsay and on the first offensive Trojan play, Chris Hodgson intercepts a pass at the 40 yard line. Haliburton is called for roughing and with third and 30 yards to go Davies boots the ball to the third yard line. Haliburton misses and Lindsay gets the ball to their 22nd yard line. Three plays later Davies crashes over, boots the convert to make the final score 10-0.

The Redmen have now played three games this season. They have won all three and in doing so have run up 68 points while giving up a mere single to Brock in the first game of the season.

Honourable mention by the coaching staff for outstanding play goes to Rick Choy, Al Northey, Peter Johnston, Chris Hodgson and Jamie Rogers.

Is it true that old hospital fever charts are used to plot those hopeful financial prospectuses we get in the mail?

Yes, Gwendolyn, you might say a flophouse is a moon-picture palace showing nothing but clunkers.

Good prospects predicted in this fall's goose hunt

Good goose hunting prospects in the far north this fall are suggested by the results of a summer production survey of lesser snow geese and Canada geese colonies, Ontario Natural Resources Minister James Auld said today.

"The prospects for hunting both Canada geese and lesser snow geese are extremely good," Mr. Auld said. "Geese hatched this spring will be abundant and with allowances made for weather and the timing of migration, hunter success should be high."

The minister said that production of lesser snow geese is the best since 1973 and the best since 1970 for Canada geese.

PL, Carnarvon Lanes top Men's Commercial league

CARNARVON — Another season is underway at the lanes and some big changes have been made by proprietor Gord Overall with the installation of six new string machines, a remodelled playing area with a new tile floor and the area where the shoes and snacks were served has been changed to a cafe-style with tables and chairs.

The changes in the commercial league are the addition of two new sponsors, Jim Barber Shop and Carnarvon Lanes. These two new sponsors have taken over from Norphoto and Rockcliffe Hotel and the executive would like to thank these two businesses for their support.

The league has completed two weeks of play now and last year's league and play-off champs, PL are off to another good start with 29 pts to lead the standings. Led by captain Fred Cox, the boys will be trying very hard to repeat their last victory. However it looks like Carnarvon Lanes a new entry this year led by Ian Coltman is going to give the PL team a run as they too have 29 pts.

In third spot is Guilford Recreation with 28 pts and led by Wes Stata. Fourth is Modern Electric who are doing well with 26 pts. Tied for fifth with 25 each are Ingoldsby and Jim's Barber Shop.

High single to date is held by Ian Coltman with 295 followed by Fred Cox with 289 and Bob Robinson with 288. In the triple category, Fred Cox leads with 767 followed by Doug Leonard of Modern with 755 and Ray Jenkins of Guilford with 715.

Top scorers this week are Cox 767, Leonard 755, Jenkins 715, Barry 685, Bell 665, Robinson 659, Coltman 701 and Steele 676.

On Sports

BY JOHN DALTON

What's behind the nicknames and expressions that color the history of sports? Plenty. Not just hype. It's the vivid language of "sportsynms."

Here are a few examples provided by "Sports Roots," a new book by Harvey Frommer (Atheneum, $8.95):

PELE: It's perhaps the most famous worldwide sports nickname ever. But Edson Arantes De Nascimento, the retired Brazilian soccer star, doesn't even know what his nickname means — or how it originated.

BRONCO NAGURSKI: It is noted that Bronislaw Nagurski, who came to the NFL Chicago Bears in 1930 out of the University of Michigan, ran with his head down. Like a wild bucking bronco.

HACK WILSON: Hall of Famer Robert Lewis Wilson was purchased by the Chicago Cubs in 1926. The National League home run star was dubbed Hackenschmidt, after a famous wrestler of the time.

VOLLEYBALL: William G. Morgan, director in the 1890s of the YMCA in Holyoke, Mass., originated a game he called Mintonette. He experimented with variations that led to volleying the ball over a net. Thus style. He went over the bar head first. And backwards.

PUGILISM: A fancy Latin-based word (pugil means "one who fights with his fists") for boxing. The shorter version is pug, which means a boxer.

WALKING MAN, THE: Eddie Yost, a 1950s Detroit Tigers star, hit only .254 in nearly two decades of major league baseball. But he coaxed pitchers into yielding 1,614 bases on balls. He's fifth on the all-time list.

POES OF PRINCETON: In 1899, the Princeton football team had a half-dozen players who answered to the name of Poe. All of them were great-nephews of poet Edgar Allan Poe.

TUG: Frank Edwin McGraw, Jr., the noted relief pitcher of the New York Mets and Philadelphia Phillies says his parents gave him the nickname because he pulled at so many things as a baby.

WRONG WAY RIEGELS: Roy Riegels of the University of California ran 70 yards with the football into his own end zone in the 1929 Rose Bowl. Said Riegels: "At least I was trying."

BUCKY DENT: The nickname of Russell Earl Dent, the New York Yankee shortstop, was given to him by his grandmother. The word means a "small Indian boy."

CASH AND CARRY: Charles C. Pyle, the 1920s sports promoter, ran his business affairs with money on an up-front basis. C.C. Pyle's legendary promotions included Red Grange, bike marathons and tennis exhibitions.

In the News

REPUBLICAN presidential hopeful George Bush isn't being "reborn" here. He's delivering a scathing attack on "frauds" who promise easy relief from inflation, energy and high taxes.

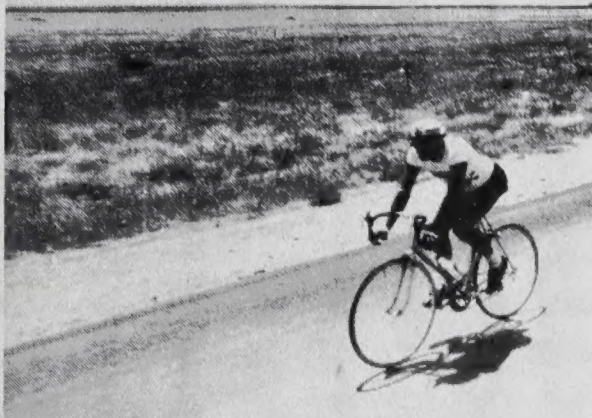

This is the week you find the three yards of glass beads you couldn't locate when you put all the holiday trim away.

Suburbia

"It's crazy! Here I got a house I paid $20,000 for that's now worth over $100,000, and I can't afford the gas to drive to and from work to pay the mortgage."

Sports View

MARATHON BIKER John Marino fought heat and drowsiness in the Great Plains on an ill-fated 1979 bid to break his coast-to-coast U.S. record. He had to call it quits in New Jersey — just short of his 1978 mark of 13 days, 1 hour, 20 minutes. He had started the new trip from his Santa Monica, Calif., home.

Old Age Security To Rise

OTTAWA-Increases in the Old Age Security pension, Guaranteed Income Supplement and Spouse's Allowance, effective in October 1979, were announced today by the Honourable Heward Grafftey, Minister of State for Social Programmes on behalf of the Honourable David Crombie, Minister of National Health and Welfare.

The basic Old Age Security pension will rise to $179.02 from the present $174.82.

The maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement for a single person, or a married person whose spouse is not a pensioner and is not receiving a Spouse's Allowance, will increase to $146.97 from its current $143.53. Added to the basic pension, this gives a person receiving both the OAS and the maximum GIS a monthly total of $325.99.

The maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement for a married couple, both pensioners, will increase to $122.20 each from $119.34. Added to the basic pension this will give each married pensioner receiving the maximum GIS a total of $301.22 or $602.44 for a couple.

The Guaranteed Income Supplement is paid to pensioners whose income, apart from the Old Age Security pension, is limited. The amount of the supplement varies in relation to income.

The maximum Spouse's Allowance will increase to $301.22 from $294.16. The maximum Spouse's Allowance is made up of an amount equivalent to the basic Old Age Security pension and the maximum GIS at the married rate and is paid to persons between 60 and 65 years of age who are married to OAS pensioners and meet residence requirements. Entitlement to a Spouse's Allowance and the amount paid, is based on yearly income.

Old Age Security pension and Guaranteed Income Supplement payments are increased quarterly based on the cost of living.

CHEVROLET'S SPORTY CORVETTE FOR 1980 — has a recognizably new, aerodynamic appearance, plus extensive weight-reducing changes. Front air dam and rear spoiler are integrated into bumper covers. Significant reductions in front-end weight were achieved by use of a new bumper system and two fiberglass corner braces. Corvette engines are the same as 1979, but the 4-speed manual transmission has wider gear ratios allowing a lower axle ratio for improved fuel economy with no loss of lower end performance. An energy-saving lock-up torque converter clutch assembly is used with all 1980 Corvette automatic transmissions. New options include a roof panel carrier that attaches directly to the body.

1980 Corvette

OSHAWA, Ont. — Chevrolet's Corvette, North America's favorite sports car, undergoes major surgery for 1980, losing about 112 kg (250 lbs.), and gaining new fiberglass bumper structures, a new, even more streamlined appearance, and an impressive level of fuel efficiency.

Chevrolet weight-watchers designed new front and rear bumper systems, lift-off roof panels made of a new lightweight, lower-density material containing microscopic glass beads (reducing panel weight about 20 percent), and lighter hood and door panels. Windshield and door glass thicknesses are reduced; selected frame and "birdcage" members are lighter and the transmission crossmember is a new, more weight-efficient design. Differential housing and supports are aluminum. The front exhaust crossover design has been changed.

Lighter engine components include an aluminum intake manifold for the standard 5.7 litre engine.

A new fiberglass face bar and two fiberglass corner braces reduce front bumper weight.

The front bumper cover features an integral lower air dam and deeply-recessed grille with integral parking lamps. The cover now extends to the wheel openings for a smoother appearance.

The air dam improves aerodynamics as well as engine cooling.

New cornering lamps complete the lower front changes. They operate automatically with the turn signals when the headlamps are on.

New taillamps are supported from the rear bumper cover, rather than the bumper bar.

A spoiler is now an integral part of the rear bumper cover. Both front and rear covers float over the bumper structure for improved fit and appearance.

Other new features are a low-profile hood and functional black louvers at front fender air vent openings. There are new, more horizontal, front and rear flag emblems, and new L82 emblem for Corvettes with that engine option.

A moulded coating improves the finish of roof panels, hood and front fender panels. The coating process provides a smooth surface that does not require sanding prior to priming.

Power trains feature revised transmission ratios and a new torque converter clutch on all automatic transmissions. The clutch automatically engages at about 50 kilometres per hour and disengages below 50 kph, or when the brake pedal is depressed. In drive range the power flow is directly to clutch disc and output shaft, bypassing the torque converter.

A four-speed manual transmission has higher first and second gear ratios to allow the use of a lower axle ratio for optimum fuel economy with no loss of lower-end performance.

The modified exhaust system reduces weight and improves engine performance. The front exhaust pipes merge at the rear of the engine, replacing the current under-engine crossover design. Selected heat shields are aluminum instead of steel.

Air conditioning, power windows, dual sport mirrors, tilt-and-telescoping steering wheel, pulse windshield wipers, floor mats and lamp group, which were added during 1979, are continued.

A new trim color, Claret, is added to the six of 1979, and a ribbed pattern cloth replaces the 1979 upholstery material. Instrument cluster graphics are new with an electric choke warning lamp added to the tachometer dial. In the centre console, detail changes have been made to the low fuel, alternator and seat belt lamp lenses.

New options include a roof panel carrier that attaches directly to the body. It is located between the back window and the new rear spoiler, and the carrier may be attached, or removed, from the car without tools. A bag is provided for inside storage of the carrier.

Optional aluminum wheels are available with polished surface and new hub insert.
